I. The Constitution

The governing document of the league, ratified by the full membership

We, the Owners of Jesuit 24 Fantasy, in order to form a more competitive league, establish fair and enforceable rules, ensure the orderly transfer of the championship trophy, provide for the common defense of our rosters against collusion, and secure the benefits of organized fantasy football for ourselves and our successors, do hereby ordain and establish this Constitution.

This league further recognizes three unassailable truths held by every Owner who has ever picked up a roster in this league: the right to glory on a Sunday, the pursuit of immortality in the record book, and the eternal, unrevokable right to talk trash about whoever finished last.

Article I — Name, Purpose, and Format

Section 1. This organization shall be known as Jesuit 24 Fantasy, a ten (10) team NFL redraft fantasy football league.

Section 2. The League shall conduct a full player draft at the beginning of each season. No keepers, dynasty assets, or carryover rosters of any kind shall be permitted between seasons.

Section 3. The League's competitive season shall consist of a fourteen (14) week regular season followed by a three (3) week playoff tournament.

Article II — Membership and Eligibility

Section 1. The League shall be composed of ten (10) Owners, each controlling one (1) team.

Section 2. There is no minimum number of consecutive seasons an Owner is obligated to commit to upon joining.

Section 3. Replacement. Prospective replacement members must apply and be extended an interview of three (3) rounds. Business professional attire is required. A one-time fifty dollar ($50) initiation fee applies upon admission.

Section 4. No applicant shall be admitted without an affirmative vote of the sitting membership following the interview process.

Article III — Governance

Section 1. The League shall be administered by a Commissioner, who maintains the schedule, collects dues, enforces this Constitution, and settles disputes.

Section 2. The Commissioner may not veto a trade for perceived unfairness alone — only for good-faith belief of collusion or cheating.

Section 3. Amendments. This Constitution may be amended by a vote of six (6) or more Owners out of ten (10).

Article IV — The Draft

Section 1. The League shall conduct a snake draft of fifteen (15) rounds prior to each season.

Section 2. The draft order shall be determined entirely at random, bearing no relation to the prior season's standings. Tanking is therefore structurally impossible and not a cognizable offense.

Section 3. Each roster consists of fifteen (15) total spots: nine (9) starters (1 QB, 2 RB, 2 WR, 1 TE, 1 FLEX [RB/WR only], 1 K, 1 DEF) and six (6) bench spots.

Article V — Regular Season and Scoring

Section 1. The regular season spans fourteen (14) weeks.

Section 2. The League uses Full PPR scoring. No penalty for a missed field goal; -2 for a missed extra point.

Section 3. Standings ties are broken by total points scored.

Article VI — Playoffs

Section 1. The top six (6) Owners qualify for the Championship Bracket; seeds 7-10 play in a Consolation Bracket.

Section 2. Seeds 1-2 receive a bye. Week 15: 3v6, 4v5. Week 16: semifinals. Week 17: Championship and Third Place games.

Article VII — Waivers and Trades

Section 1. Waiver claims process on a reverse-standings basis.

Section 2. The trade deadline falls in Week 12 of the regular season.

Article VIII — Financial Terms

Section 1. League dues are set by annual vote prior to each draft; due in full on draft day, with a five dollar ($5) per day late fee.

Section 2. Prize distribution: Champion 70%, Runner-Up 20%, Best Regular Season Record 10%.

Section 3. An Owner who withdraws mid-season forfeits a one hundred dollar ($100) fine.

Article IX — Code of Conduct

Section 1. No Owner shall collude to manipulate the outcome of any trade, waiver claim, or matchup.

Section 2. Failure to comply with this Constitution results in termination of the offending Owner's manager duties, unless otherwise specified.

Article X — The Loser's Punishment

Section 1. The last-place finisher each season is subject to a punishment determined by the membership, to be completed no later than the following season's draft day.

IV. Franchise Mount Rushmore

Four all-time greats, editorially selected

Matteo Costanzo — “The Founder”

He was commissioner before a single game had been played — and then, fittingly, he won the league's first-ever championship too. Season 1, the whole thing brand new, and the guy running it was also the guy holding the trophy. He's run the league ever since: setting the schedule, enforcing the punishments, keeping the trophy meaningful. His playing record hasn't kept pace with his administrative one — no title since that very first year, and the “rigs the draft order” jokes have become a permanent fixture of league lore. But there wouldn't be six seasons of history to look back on without him.

Jack Moran — “The Slow Build”

No one's climb has been more deliberate. 6th place, then 4th, then 3rd, then finally — Season 6 — a championship. Four straight years of incremental improvement, each season a little better than the last, until it all came together at once. The running back method that used to be a punchline around the league is now a blueprint. If he does it again, he'd be the first repeat champion in franchise history — a distinction nobody else has managed in six tries.

Sullivan Ernst — “The Best Team to Never Win It”

Six seasons, 48 wins — the most of anyone in league history — and still no ring to show for it. Sullivan has been a top-half team essentially every year, with the best all-time record in Jesuit 24 Fantasy, and yet the championship has slipped through his fingers again and again. It's the kind of résumé that would define most franchises, except it's missing the one thing that actually matters.

Alec Piotrowski — “The Most Talented Roster”

The numbers back up what everyone already suspects: nobody builds a better team than Alec. A 58.9% win rate is the best of anyone in the league, a Season 4 title backs it up, and he's barely finished outside the top half since he joined. The “steal of the draft” reputation isn't hyperbole — it shows up in the box scores year after year.

V. Legacy Score Standings

An all-time GOAT ranking, weighted beyond just championships

#	Manager	Score	Titles	Playoffs	Weekly Highs
1	Adam Proctor	374	1	5	16
